

Privacy Policy

This notice provides information about the privacy policies and practices of CamberView Partners, LLC (“CamberView”) regarding how the information you share with us through our website is collected, used, and maintained.

We do not sell your information to third parties. We also maintain policies, procedures, and technical measures that are intended to secure and manage the responsible handling of collected information. The examples below of information we collect are intended to illustrate our information practices; they are not intended to be exhaustive.

You do not need to take any action as a result of this notice, but you do have certain rights as described below.

Information we Collect from Visitors

Information You Provide

Completing forms or registering on our website may require you to give us your personally-identifiable information and information about your company. This may allow you to receive content that may not otherwise be available to you or to ask specific questions about our company or our services. By providing this information you are opting into future communication from CamberView.

We use this information to help improve our site to reflect your interests and deliver personalized information to you. We may also use contact information from the online registration process to send you our content or information about our company. Your information may also be used to reach you, when necessary, regarding questions you may have asked about our company or our services.

Information Your Browser Provides

CamberView’s website, like many others, uses “cookies” (a small text file placed on the user’s device) to facilitate site navigation, maintain quality online service, provide additional security, and allow the customization of your experience on the site. These cookies automatically collect information about your computer hardware and software, which can include browser type, access times, and Internet Protocol (“IP”) address. We do not use cookies to collect information from third party web sites that you may visit.

CamberView may monitor aggregate user traffic patterns and site usage to help provide enhancements to the user experience of our website. We may also use cookies to track user requests or to determine audience size and repeated usage.

You may opt out of accepting cookies by changing the settings on your browser. Rejecting cookies may, however, diminish your browsing experience and prevent you from using certain functions.

Future Communications

You may elect not to receive future communications from us by sending an email to info@camberview.com to be unsubscribed from our email database. You may also use this address to request that no future communications regarding our services be sent to you.

Our website may contain links to other sites. CamberView is not responsible for the privacy practices or the content of such websites.

Contacting us about Website Policies and Practices

If you have any questions about this privacy statement, our practices regarding this website, or your dealings with this website, please contact:

Christopher Nordquist, General Counsel

Address: 330 Madison Avenue, 20th Floor, New York, NY 10017

Phone: 212-235-2918

Email: christopher.nordquist@caberview.com

March 2018